Headline:
Turning drier overnight. Remaining mostly cloudy through Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Cloudy, damp and breezy during Friday evening. Outbreaks of rain and drizzle clearing eastwards with some clear spells for a time, then becoming mostly cloudy to end the night, with a few showers, mainly affecting Norfolk. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Saturday:
Probably remaining on the cloudy side, with the east most prone to lingering cloud and light showers, perhaps becoming more widespread to end the day, with spells of rain. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
A little cooler than of late and remaining mostly cloudy with a little light rain possible at times. Light winds and increasing chance of fog Monday and Tuesday.
